Arrests made at Bay High

BY B.R. HAWKINS

Four brothers were arrested by Bay St. Louis police officers Tuesday, following a disruption in a classroom.

Charges against the brothers, new students at Bay High School, range from assault on a police officer, assault on a teacher, disturbance of the peace at a school, disorderly conduct, and resisting arrest.

Bay-Waveland School District Assistant Superintendent Kim Stasny said no one was injured and the situation was diffused shortly after officers arrived on campus.

Stasny said a ninth grade student became agitated and threatened a classmate shortly after class had begun. "As the teacher tried to calm the student, he left the classroom to get

Robbery suspect takes officers on wild chase

BY ED LEPOMA

A robbery suspect led Bay St. Louis and Waveland police on a wild chase Monday night before giving up without incident in Shoreline Park.

The series of events began first in Bay St. Louis when dispatchers received a call about 7:30 p.m. A clerk at the Domino's Pizza delivery outlet reported that he had just been robbed at gunpoint by a white male. The clerk said the man demanded all the money in the cash register, and threatened him with a gun.

After gathering the cash, the clerk reported the robber fled in a gold "Explorer-type vehicle," and the clerk managed to get a partial license tag number.

Waveland Police Chief James Varnell said dispatchers received a call at approximately 8:20 p.m., Monday night from the owner of Coleman Avenue grocery, who said he had just been robbed by a white male. The owner told police the suspect entered the store, implying he had a weapon, but he did not brandish it.

Ready to dredge

A dredging rig is poised at the foot of the Washington Street Pier, ready to begin improvements planned there. Jesco Construction Corp. of Gulfport is in charge of the $142,000 project, which includes relocating one jetty, installing another, and improving the boat launch. The fishing area and boat launch are closed during construction. (Echo staff photo by B.R. Hawkins)

Possible litigation considered

BY MARY G. SEILEY

City officials waded through murky waters this week, dealing with disputes over drainage and an endangered bike-path project.

City Council wrapped up their business Tuesday night behind closed doors, where they met in executive session at the suggestion of legal counsel.

While the exact topic of discussion during that meeting was not disclosed, there were strong indications earlier that the talk concerned controversy over the city's enormous drainage projects in progress and the proposed bikeway system.

The two seemingly unrelated matters are tied closely together because both require the city to obtain the right to use properties owned by CSX. The rail company is continuing a years-long insistence that the city close off some track crossings before granting the needed rights-of-way.

While the controversy has lingered unresolved, the bike path project has bogged down beyond an Oct. 31 deadline for the beginning of construction. A third of the drainage project has gone almost to the point of completion despite the dispute.

County marina taking shape

BY ED LEPOMA

Slowly, but surely, Hancock County's marina is taking shape at the foot of Pleasure Street off Lakeshore Road.

At their regular monthly meeting Monday, supervisors were briefed on the status of the $1.1 million project under construction at Bayou Caddy. Malouf Construction Corp. of Madison is in charge of first-phase construction.

Engineer Jeff Clemens with consulting Compton Engineering told supervisors, "The marina is 75 to 85 percent complete." He said supervisors could plan a ribbon cutting within a month to officially open the marina.

Clemens said the sloped boat launch is in place, and the piers on the east and west side are finished, with lighting, water and sewerage connected to the site.

The Echo on Tuesday toured the 6.8-acre site with Oliver Sahuque, who has been hired as county harbormaster, and checks on the project's status daily.

Sahuque pointed to a dredge sitting in water at the west end of the marina, and said dredging was expected to begin later this week. The street entering the marina is still a muddy mess because of the heavy trucks going in and out of the site. The limestone has been laid in the parking area, but the entrance road is still not paved because heavy rip rap must still be hauled to the site.

Officers offering help discover 72-lbs. of pot

BY ED LEPOMA

Agents with Hancock County's Narcotics Task Force got quite a surprise early last Sunday morning when they came to the aid of a chartered bus disabled alongside Interstate 10.

Task Force Executive Director Shane Corr said Lt. Tim Broder and Deputy Abe Long were patrolling the interstate eastbound about 2:30 a.m. Sunday when they noticed a chartered Adama bus stopped in the emergency lane with its lights flashing near the 12-mile marker.

"They stopped to render assistance," said Corr, "And, in the process, they asked the bus driver if they could check the cargo hold of the bus."

ADA complaint filed against Waveland

BY BETSY GAGNET

A complaint has been filed against the City of Waveland with the United States Justice Department alleging violations of Title II of the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA).

A letter notifying the city of the complaint, received by the city on Nov. 13, states that on five separate occasions the city held planning workshops in a meeting room which was inaccessible to people with mobility impairments.

The workshop meetings are regularly held twice a month in the mayor's office, located on the second floor of City Hall which is not equipped with an elevator. No official action is taken during the workshops, but they are public meetings in which city issues and citizens' complaints are often addressed.

The notification requested information on the accessible features of City Hall and the services and programs provided there. Also requested was information regarding steps taken by the city to make activities within City Hall accessible to people with disabilities and a copy of the city's self-evaluation required by all entities covered under Title II of the ADA.

A request was made for a copy of the city's "grievance procedures for complaints alleging discrimination on the basis of disability."

Post office asks customers to mail early; provides tips

The Pass Christian Post Office is ready to help you "Fly Like an Eagle" through the holiday season, but with mail volume continuing to increase, "Mail Early" are again the watchwords this year.

"This 1998 holiday season, U.S. Postal Service customers will bring 16.7 billion cards, letters and packages to post offices during the holiday season," Pass Christian Postmaster Sheila Beaugez said.

"We are asking customers to keep it coming during the busiest time of the year, but please start early so we can make sure everything is delivered on time," she added.

Beaugez said that customers can help by providing window clerks with full information on packages, such as requirements for insurance, delivery confirmation, desired time for package arrival and other pertinent information.

To help customers, she suggests the following mailing tips:

- Write, type or print the complete delivery address neatly.

- Always use a return address.

- Always use complete address information, such as Ave., Blvd., and St. Always use the apartment or suite number. Always use correct directionals, such as N, W and SW.

- Don't let an incorrect ZIP code delay delivery of cards and letters. Local post offices and the Postal Service Web site — www.usps.com — offer ZIP Code information.

- Select a container that's strong enough to protect the contents. Leave space for cushioning inside the carton.

- Always use tape that is designed for shipping, such as pressure-sensitive tape, nylon-reinforced craft paper tape or glass-reinforced pressure-sensitive tape.

- Plain air-popped popcorn, shredded or rolled newspaper, bubble wrap, or Styrofoam peanuts work well for cushioning package contents.

"CUEVAS" QUOTES

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Friday night marks the annual Christmas banquet for the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce.

As I understand, the event has been sold out for over two weeks with a waiting list.

Our own United States Congressman from Bay St. Louis, Gene Taylor, is the scheduled guest speaker.

New chamber president Teri Wyly will announce the chairman for the coming year of the chamber's various committees.

The banquet will be at Our Lady of the Gulf Community Center.

On Saturday morning children will have an opportunity of having breakfast with Santa at Hancock Medical Center from 7:30 a.m.-11:30 p.m.

This event is sponsored by the Hancock County Kiwanis Club, and tickets are $3 each. For further information, call Reed Breeland at 467-9296.

Saturday is a busy day as the Hancock County Welcome Center will present a Mississippi Old-Fashioned Christmas which includes Santa and treats for the children.

The Welcome Center is located on Interstate 10 at the first exit as one enters the state from Louisiana.

There will be caroling, the Diamondhead Dancers and more for family entertainment from 10:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Our Welcome Center is a very beautiful facility, and it is really a shame that not everyone in the county has paid a visit.

Bobbie Tate, center director, and her staff do a very fine job in welcoming visitors from across the nation to our great state of Mississippi.

Several folks and groups from the area help the Welcome Center's staff on special occasions.

Why not drop by and check the facility out and see the welcome our visitors receive.

A special Second Saturday will be held by the Old Town Bay St. Louis Merchants Association on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

There will be an art walk, open house entertainment and much more for the downtown merchants.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

I knew in a second, he must be Saint Nick

Early this morning on my way to the Bay, I hailed a contracting crew from the fog's delay.

My request was simple, to retrieve our street sign from the ditch; being advised to contact the county as this was beyond their bounty.

Upon a second request for our neighborhood's plea, the kind gentleman said with a glee, "Lady, we could do it." He didn't say he would, but he did say he could.

As I drove out of sight, crossing the Jourdan River Bridge in flight, what did I see in a glimmer, but the snowy-haired gentleman, with rosy-red cheeks, peering into the ditch at our sign in a pinch.

And returning home, what to my surprise did I find, but our standing street sign, retrieved and erected, and I knew in a second, he must be Saint Nick.

Thank you and Merry Christmas to all.

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

JACKSON—Mike Espy has gotten his freedom back. Now who is going to give him back his reputation?

Certainly, the American people, especially his fellow Mississippians, owe that to him.

Even if Espy is offered his old job as Secretary of Agriculture back, I hope that he would turn it down. He needs to come back to his roots, to Mississippi, and restore his name among home folks.

Before Espy was tapped by President Clinton as the nation's first black Secretary of Agriculture in 1993, then-Congressman Espy was without doubt the brightest political hope to emerge from Mississippi's African-American community in modern times.

More than any other black political figure on the state's landscape, Espy was a renaissance man to open a genuine, viable bi-racial politics in a state noted for its gothic political and social institutions. He could become, I had predicted back in 1992, Mississippi's first black governor.

Espy's appeal to white voters in this state made that a rational observation. Certainly no other black political figure up to then or even since has come close to Espy's bi-racial outreach.

Regardless of the honor, I felt it was a mistake for him to take the cabinet appointment, because he could render greater value in welding a new political system across the bi-racial spectrum in Mississippi.

Much as he aspired to become a top level official in the Clinton administration as a reward for his work for Clinton, I felt Espy was, at 39, awful young to take a cabinet post and, further, had no special skills in the field of agriculture. Plus the fact, I feared he was not prepared to handle the rarified atmosphere at the cabinet level. And, of course, to be surrounded by readily-available perks, which we later learned, ruefully, almost brought him down.

But to wage a $17 million Independent Counsel inquisition of the man for essentially taking a few football tickets is the height of investigative lunacy which has been running rampant recently in Washington.

How idiotic we must look to others around the world to hound our top level administration officials out of office for such piddling matters, which have nothing to do with our national interests, nor pose the slightest threat to our security. Once again we are seen as chasing after gnats instead of camels.

During his four-year ordeal there was never any evidence that the small gifts Espy had accepted as Ag Secretary had corrupted any of his official actions as the chief regulator of the agricultural industry. To the contrary, during his tenure as Secretary, he was responsible for instituting some of the toughest new regulations ever imposed, including, no less, the first crackdown against distribution of E Coli tainted meat in the marketplace.

For starters, Mike Espy should get back his seat as Mississippi's 2nd District Congressman. That, of course, would not be appealing to Bennie Thompson, who now occupies that seat. Thompson has spent too much time being the BLACK congressman from Mississippi, rather than Mississippi's 2nd District Congressman. Polarizing politicians we don't need.

Here's more logic to this idea of Espy regaining the 2nd District seat: Come 2001 there is little doubt Mississippi will have to redraw congressional districts to eliminate one of the present five. It is a given we will have to keep one black majority district—the 2nd.

But it appears almost certain the 2nd District cannot continue to be a super-majority black district, as Thompson now enjoys. To balance populations of four districts, it is estimated each will have to be given 150,000 more residents than each of the five now has.

The only direction for enlarging the 2nd District is eastward into counties which now have a white majority.

That means the 2nd District is going to become whiter. Espy amply demonstrated, first with his election in 1986, and re-election in 1988, that he can win in a district with only slightly more than a 50 percent black majority. The 2nd now has a 60 percent black majority.

Remarkably, when the Mississippi Legislature was redrawing congressional district lines in 1991, Espy came down and appealed against throwing more blacks into the 2nd District by taking them away from surrounding districts. However, he failed, because Republicans in the Legislature made a deal with certain black power brokers to make the 2nd a super-majority black district and whitening both the 3rd and 4th districts.

The scheme of the Republicans was this would make the 3rd and 4th more likely to elect Republicans. History records that both districts within three years had Republicans in those two seats.

After his "persecution" at the hands of the Independent Counsel for the past four years, it is my belief Espy could re-enter Mississippi's political scene with a huge reservoir of sympathy and compassion that would serve him well to get back into elective office.

Mississippi has always had a penchant for rewarding martyrs, and Mike Espy should be no exception.

VA will not add Viagra to required drug inventories

The drugs that must be available to all VA medical treatment facilities will not include Viagra.

Veterans will continue to have existing treatments for erectile dysfunction available in addition to new approaches. However, the cost of Viagra would have a crippling effect on VA's pharmaceutical budget at anticipated levels of use. The VA projects that the cost of providing Viagra could exceed $280 million annually.

A VA pharmacy committee reviewed interaction issues and recommended against adding Viagra to VA's formulary (which are the drugs required for availability at all VA medical centers) because of safety concerns about the product in VA's patient population.

Viagra may interact with numerous medications, and its safety in patients with the kind of complex medical problems commonly experienced by veterans has not been demonstrated, the pharmacy committee advised.

Excluding Viagra from the national formulary limits its availability but does not prevent its use in VA. Where a physician at a medical center feels that there is an overwhelming therapeutic rationale to use Viagra, network officials may decide to provide the drug "off formulary."

Other health insurers, including Aetna, Prudential Insurance Co. of America, Humana, Inc., and Kaiser Permanente, are also refusing to pay for Viagra prescriptions.

Military hospital care

Free care at military hospitals is based on the availability of space, personnel and technical capacity for all but active duty members.

A decision by the office of the assistant secretary of defense for health affairs has given priority "space-available" access to beneficiaries who are enrolled in Tricare Prime.

People who are 65 or older and entitled to Medicare are not eligible for Tricare Prime. They often find themselves excluded from military hospitals.

The Pentagon has been authorized to conduct tests at selected sites that will allow certain retired beneficiaries age 65 and older to continue their Tricare entitlement even after becoming entitled to Medicare.

FROM THE GOVERNOR

By Governor
Kirk Fordice

Gov. Fordice commends '60 Minutes' segment

Governor Kirk Fordice commended a "60 Minutes" segment that ran Sunday, Nov. 1, that detailed fraud in registering and voting under the motor voter law. 60 Minutes' segment included stories of fictitious people registering, non-citizens registering, and people registering more than once.

Publications such as Readers Digest, Florida Times-Union, Boston Globe, Mobile Register, and Lake Charles American Press have all written about motor voter's lax registration requirements.

Gov. Fordice vetoed a motor voter law during the 1998 legislative session citing concerns about fraud and the lack of a voter ID provision.

"During election time we must remember that voting is a sacred right passed to us by the Founding Fathers. Because voting is a privilege, we must do all we can to protect the sanctity of those who vote legally."

"60 Minutes did an admirable job in pointing out some serious flaws in the motor voter law. The potential for voter fraud documented in other states makes it even more urgent that we should pass a voter ID requirement in Mississippi, either through the Mississippi Republican Party's petition drive or in the legislative session next year," said Fordice.

Fordice opposed the implementation of motor voter in Mississippi because of the voter fraud linked to motor voter in other states, the unfunded mandate that increases workload for state employees, and the wholesale replacement of state voter registration laws.

NASA names MSU a national remote sensing center

A new $10 million NASA grant will make Mississippi State University a national center for remote sensing research.

Remote sensing uses space-based satellites and airborne platforms to capture and transmit data about the earth. Images created from the data help scientists monitor forests and land use, make agricultural decisions and analyze land-based systems such as railroads and highways.

In 1997, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration provided $500,000 for MSU to become the Southern Remote Sensing Research and Training Center. Since then, the university has become a leader in the emerging technology, especially as it applies to precision agriculture and forest management.

The newly designated Applied Remote Sensing Center of Excellence "will expand and focus the university's basic and applied research in the areas in which it excels," said Robert A. Altenkirch, vice president for research. He praised Senators Trent Lott and Thad Cochran, along with Rep. Chip Pickering, for their support in securing the appropriations.

"In the future, remote sensing could be a $5-to-10 billion business with Mississippi playing a key role in the growth, development and commercial aspects of this innovative industry," Pickering said of the latest NASA grant.

The new center will focus on agriculture, forestry and wildlife, and transportation, with cross-emphasis on computational modeling and workforce development.

"These are areas of benefit to the state and the nation and areas in which Mississippi State has special expertise," said Nancy M. Cox, the Mississippi Agricultural and Forestry Experiment assistant director who chaired the committee drafting the center proposal.

The remote sensing center will take a multidisciplinary approach to research projects, Altenkirch said.

"We will focus on putting together teams to work on problems in both the public and private sectors," he added. "As a land-grant university, Mississippi State is experienced in translating research into benefits for the user."

Among agricultural problems remote sensing could immediately address is the proper application of nitrogen to cotton crops.

If the gaseous element is applied as fertilizer throughout the season, farmers often must apply a second chemical at the end of the season to terminate crop growth.

"Satellite data can help us learn just how much nitrogen is needed and could help determine precise locations for application," Cox said. "Solving this problem would provide direct economic and environmental benefits."

The effectiveness of remote sensing depends on the correct interpretation of data. To that end, MSU's expertise in computational modeling and scientific visualization will support the increased efforts in remote sensing research and teaching.

These educational activities will begin with enhanced classroom emphasis on remote sensing technologies. Mississippi State's Extension Service and Division of Continuing Education workshops also will provide links to K-12 schools and community colleges.

Second Saturday returns

A holiday Second Saturday Artwalk is scheduled from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m., Saturday, Dec. 12, to benefit Save Our Children.

Highlights of the day's events include a performance by St. Rose De Lima's Little People's Choir at 5 p.m., a tree lighting at 5:30 p.m. followed by family caroling.

For more information contact Vicki Niolet at 467-8318 or Ellis Anderson at 467-7279.

Area potter featured exhibitor

Local potter Regan Carney will be exhibiting a special collection of new work at Quarter Moon Galleries, 146 Main Street, Bay St. Louis, for the Holiday Second Saturday Artwalk.

The newest pieces include the popular "lettuce bowls" and serving dishes decorated with her signature swirl pattern glazing technique.

The collection will also feature vases, mugs, plates and platters in a variety of earthy colors.

"This is a great opportunity for those who missed last week's studio sale at the Bay Artists Co-Op. People love receiving pottery as a gift because it's designed and created with great care and love by a real craftsman and not some machine."

"Traditional hand-thrown pottery is becoming harder to find all the time because a lot of the older techniques are being by-passed for faster mass-production methods. But the feel of a real hand-made piece of pottery is unique. It's made to be appreciated for a lifetime."

Carney has been working in clay for the last 25 years and is currently teaching pottery. She is an active member of Bay Artist Co-Op. She'll be on hand all day to answer questions and discuss her techniques.

Refreshments will be served. For information, contact gallery manager Carol Terrell at 467-7279.

his three brothers who, at the time, were in other classes in the building," Stasny said. "Meanwhile, the classroom teacher notified the Bay High School Principal Sandra Reed and sent the threatened student to the office. Her actions were both appropriate and timely."

Assistant Principal Rusty Dempsey and police officer confronted the boys in a hallway and ordered them to the principal's office. Dempsey said he was shoved. The students became combative and attempted to leave the campus. The officer called for assistance. Units responded and all four of the students were arrested and taken to the Bay St. Louis Police Department.

The students will be brought before the Hancock County Youth Court and the Bay St. Louis Municipal Court.

The brothers had recently moved to Bay St. Louis from out-of-state. Stasny said that Friday an slight incident arose involving one of the brothers that caused school officials to check into the students' history. While there were a few problems, there was nothing in their records indicating any violent behavior. The students were not under any disciplinary actions. School officials would not identify the students but, according to reports, indicated that two students were junior and the older student was a senior.

Early accounts of the confrontation indicating that one of students took the officer's gun were false, Stasny said. "The officer was in control of his weapon at all times." As a matter of precaution, Reed instructed teachers to lock classroom doors. Later, administrators visited with students and in classrooms to settle concerns.

Bay St. Louis Police Chief Frank McNeil said officers were struck and kicked but were not seriously injured.

Robbery

After turning over some money, the owner told police he watched the suspect flee in a brown-colored Ford Bronco, and he reported the last three numbers on the license tag were 766.

About 19 minutes later, at 8:39 p.m., a Bay St. Louis police officer began pursuing the vehicle as the Bronco went in various directions through Bay St. Louis.

Waveland police joined in the chase when the vehicle entered the city limits and as it continued north on Nicholson up Hwy. 603 to the Shoreline Park area.

Varnell said at the Bayou La Croix bridge the suspect in the vehicle made a U-turn, coming back south on Hwy. 603 to the Shoreline Park area.

"The pursuit continued through Shoreline Park to Harbor Drive and south to Hwy.

90," said Varnell, "And, a Waveland police officer deployed stop sticks, designed to flatten the tires."

"Two of the tires on the vehicle were flattened, but the suspect continuing driving the vehicle west on Hwy. 90 to Bayside Park with officers still in pursuit," Varnell said.

Varnell said the suspect then turned the vehicle into one of the streets in the park and abandoned it. Shortly afterwards he stole another vehicle and was observed leaving Bayside Park.

Officers again went in pursuit when the vehicle continued to speed west on Hwy. 90 to Old Hwy. 90.

"The vehicle then made another U-turn, back east on Hwy. 90 to Harbor Drive," said Varnell. "Units continued to pursue the vehicle to an area in Shoreline Park around Bancroft Street where the suspect abandoned the vehicle and took refuge in a house."

Varnell said the Special Operations Division (S.O.D.) was called in and surrounded the house. At approximately 12:23 a.m. Tuesday the suspect surrendered and was arrested without incident.

Varnell identified the suspect as Robert Alan Roy, 24, of 725 Blue Meadow Road, Bay St. Louis.

The chief said the suspect was out on bond from a previous robbery of the E-Z Serve in Bay St. Louis.

Roy was taken to the Hancock County jail and charged with robbery. His bond was set at $25,000. He faces a Jan. 6 arraignment in Bay St. Louis Municipal Court.

Varnell said the incident remains under investigation by Brett Ladner.

Waveland

"I'm researching the situation, and the city attorney is researching the situation," said Waveland Mayor Tommy Longo. "We have sent off a letter in response to the notice of complaint."

The response, filed by Waveland City Attorney Ronnie Artigues, Jr., explained that while workshop meetings have been held in the mayor's office, to the city's knowledge no individual with mobility impairments has been denied access to the meetings.

The response further states that in one instance when an individual who was physically ill desired to address the mayor and the board, the meeting was moved to another location.

According to Artigues' letter, future workshop meetings will be held in the City Hall Annex which is one-story building.

"In the future, workshops and other public meetings will be held in the Annex," confirmed Longo. "Even before we got this letter, my plans were to bring the meetings to the people, so holding the workshops in the Annex doesn't cause a change in plans."

The city's response states that while the city has never officially adopted a grievance procedure for complaints alleging discrimination based on disability, the present complaint is the first brought to the city's attention. Further, a written policy will be implemented as soon as possible.

Artigues also pointed out that the city's utilities, public works, tax, permit, and building departments are all located on the first floor of City Hall. Further, the police, fire and court departments are all housed in one-story buildings.

Waveland Public Works Director Ray Eaton has completed a preliminary evaluation of City Hall, the city's public pier, library, fire station, and police station and provided proposed improvements.

Among the suggested improvements are ramps for the library, police station and fire station, an elevator for City Hall, and renovations to some of the existing bathrooms.

New Marina

Marina

Bill Johnson, also with Compton Engineering, told the Echo that the marina will provide approximately 1,120 linear feet of docking space, with 580 feet of docking available on the east side and 540 feet on the west side.

Johnson said the boats will not have individual slips, but will be docked "end to end." The size of the boats will determine how many can be accommodated, he said.

At Monday's meeting, Johnson also asked guidance from supervisors on the second-phase of construction.

Johnson said, "We're (Compton) sitting on plans and specifications to put it out to bid."

But, supervisors told Johnson to hold off advertising for bids on construction of an elevated harbor master's building, which will also contain handicapped-accessible public restrooms.

Johnson estimates the building will cost between $90,000 and $100,000, and supervisors said before they advertise for bidders, they want to see how much Tideland's funds are available for construction.

Supervisors had requested $300,000 in 1999 Tideland's funds to continue the marina project, but initially received only about $189,000. Then, when Secretary of State Eric Clark reported more revenues had come in from casinos leasing bottomlands, the county's allocation was raised to about $225,000.

The holdup means the marina will most likely open without public restrooms, but plans are to use port-a-lets at the site temporarily.

In other business Monday,

- Approved a resolution by District 3 Supervisor Lisa Coward and asking outgoing Transportation Commissioner Ronnie Shows to restore lights with turn signals at major intersections on U.S. Hwy. 90. Coward also wants Shows to reinstall the blinking caution light on the bridge spanning the Bay of St. Louis.

- Promised residents of Old Lazy River Road that they will make an effort to improve their road conditions until it is paved as part of the county's $5 million road improvement project.

- Approved a resolution asking Chancery Court judges to reconsider the permanent appointment of Robin Gryder-Gibson as Youth Court judge for Hancock, Harrison and Stone counties. Supervisors want a resident of Hancock County appointed to the position.

Litigation

but the city is facing an undetermined bill from CSX for rights-of-way.

Monday, Jeff Loftus of Gulf Regional Planning Commission told a City Council workshop he's reluctant to call Mississippi Department of Transportation officials concerning the bikeway project.

"I'm at the point where I don't even like to call MDOT anymore, because we haven't had much progress," Loftus said. "I'm at the point where I don't want to raise another flag with them."

The issue resurfaced Tuesday as attorney Donald Rafferty said intense negotiations with CSX over the bike path crossings of railroad tracks, and the rights-of-way for drainage easements are in progress.

Rafferty said he would prefer to discuss details in an executive session, but he indicated the city has chosen to postpone legal action against the railroad to see if the negotiations will bear fruit.

"We could wait forever," said at-large council member James Rutherford. "We've already waited two years."

Council member James Thriffiley said if CSX officials are balking over a few pike path crossings of the tracks, it's not likely the company will cooperate with the city's drainage projects. "The truth is that bike path is slipping away and the drainage is up in the air," Thriffiley said.

Mayor Eddie Favre said the city has gotten a "right of entry" agreement for the drainage project in negotiations. "What's up in the air," he said, "is how much it's going to cost us."

Favre said CSX wants $30,000 per acre for the drainage rights-of-way at issue. With more than three acres of property in discussion, the tab totals over $100,000, council was told.

Thriffiley suggested that the pike path project is funded through state and federal transportation programs that are pushing alternative means of transportation to save fossil fuel usage. That includes rail transportation, he said. But "Here's the train people coming back and slamming the door on the bike path."

Rafferty said CSX officials are concerned about the safety of motorists crossing the tracks -- much less children on bikes. The company may give the city the right to cross tracks at two locations, he said, for every one crossing that the city agrees to close.

That position, said council president Tad Black, is "stupid." The city has been considering building only part of the overall bikeway project which is away from the tracks entirely: on both sides of Dunbar Avenue, between Highway 90 and North Beach Boulevard.

MDOT awarded a grant of almost $1 million a couple of years ago, to finance an extensive pedestrian walkway and the bike path system throughout the city. Portions of the work are to be completed by the county, and the cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland.

Meanwhile, the drainage projects are proceeding despite the rights-of-way dispute. But those projects, financed by a $5.5 million general obligation bond issue, have hit other difficulties unrelated to the rights-of-way issue.

There are disagreements with the contractor, Colom Construction Co., and apparent conflict with the projects' engineer, James Chiniche.

Monday, Chiniche was at council's workshop to ask for a special meeting with council to discuss "some issues" involving "potential litigation." He did not elaborate. Chiniche also asked council if they had questions concerning his latest invoices for $8,800.

Earlier, council member Carleen Moran had asked if the mayor would make a recommendation on whether to pay those invoices, and Favre said he would have one on Tuesday night.

Tuesday, Favre said the city should delay that payment, pending "clarification on some of the other issues that have been raised." He didn't say what the issues were, however.

Council voted four-to-one in favor of delaying the payment, with Black opposed.

Meanwhile, the same set of monthly bills that council did pay contained an $8,900 invoice from Geoscience Engineers, a firm the city hired to study soil conditions along portions of the drainage canals that have been built.

City officials are concerned about some areas of the slopes which have collapsed, even before the project is complete. Repair estimates range from $150,000 to $200,000.

Colom has been awarded some $4.2 million in contracts for the first two segments of drainage work. The third and final segment hasn't gone out for bids yet, and it isn't clear whether the contractor or the city will have to bear the cost of repairing the faltering canals.

Council set a special workshop for Dec. 17, at 7:30 p.m., to discuss the drainage projects with Chiniche.

In other business, Favre had out seven "Friends of the Depot" designations in thanks for contributions made by local citizens, government agencies and Casino Magic.

Cited were L.J. Griffin, Betsy Pincus and Charles Gray; the Hancock County Tourism Development Bureau, Hancock County Library System, Hancock County R.S.V.P., and Casino Magic, for various acts of assistance and donations.

DMR sets public hearing today

The Department of Marine Resources will hold a public hearing to receive public comments regarding an application submitted by the President/Broadwater Hotel, LLC and President Casino Inc. to fill or impact 66 acres of Mississippi Sound and modify 260 acres north of Hwy. 90 for the purpose of creating a casino destination resort with six casinos, 12 hotels, retail and entertainment facilities and a 400-slip marina.

The hearing will be 7 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 10 at the Coast Coliseum Convention Center, Hall D.

area, Corr said the deputies "were greeted by a very strong odor of marijuana."

Corr said the agents started pulling out bundles of the dope, and some bags were covered with baby powder while others with axle grease in an obvious attempt to disguise the smell.

The agents seized about 72 pounds of marijuana, with an estimated street value between $85,000 and $100,000, but Corr said no one on the bus matched the number on the claim tickets, so no arrests were made. Once repaired, the bus and its passengers were allowed to continue on their way, Corr said. An investigation is continuing.

Census Bureau offering jobs in Hancock County

The U.S. Census Bureau is making preparations for Census 2000, and it has openings for field workers in Hancock County. The work will begin in January. Full-time and part-time positions are available. The hourly pay ranges from $8.50 to $10, depending on the specific job assignment.

"Work is available on weekdays and also on weekends. We're looking for people who are unemployed or who are retired," said regional recruiter Donna Stovall. "We're also looking for people who may be working and want to schedule census work around their current job."

Since local residents know their own community better than anyone else, the Census Bureau is hoping to hire people who live in the neighborhoods where address updating will be conducted.

No experience is needed for these jobs, as paid training is provided by the Census Bureau.

The job duties primarily involve driving and walking through urban communities to update Census Bureau maps and addresses. Field workers also speak with residents to confirm the accuracy of family names and addresses.

Applicants for census field work must pass a written exam of basic work skills. The exam only takes about 30 minutes, and an extra hour is needed to process employment paperwork.

To qualify, applicants must be a U.S. citizen and 18 years old (or 16 with a GED or high school diploma). It is also desirable for applicants to have their own transportation.

To obtain information about this job opportunity, contact the local census field office in Gulfport at (228) 822-9019 or phone the Dallas regional census office toll-free at 1-888-325-7733.

Real estate licenses issued

Real estate examinations were held for the months of November in Jackson for those persons desiring to enter the field of real estate sales, rentals and other related real estate activities.

Eight individuals sitting for the broker examination successfully completed the requirements and will now become licensed real estate brokers.

Twenty-five individuals sitting for the salespersons examination successfully completed the requirements and will now be awarded the salesperson license.

The examination consists of 100 questions prepared by the American College Testing Services (ACT) for real estate license law officials across the United States and Canada. Applicants are questioned concerning the Mississippi real estate law and rules and regulations governing their activities in that vocation.

Commissioner Lenny Sawyer, 5th Congressional District, Gulfport, announced Lisette Cartagena, Yvonne Griffith and Joan Abbley Lopez, all of Hancock County, have each received a salesperson's license.

Frisbie attends manager's retreat

Nell Frisbie of Latter & Blum recently attended a four-day working retreat in Key West, Fla. The managers' retreat directly followed the "Top of the Latter" retreat, a meeting of Latter & Blum's top agents.

The retreat was an opportunity for managers to share information, engage in the development of new programs for customers and clients and plan strategically for the future.

This year's topic highlight was utilizing the latest computer technology to increase market dominance in the Gulf South.

Greenwood man sentenced in securities fraud case

Secretary of State Eric Clark and Leflore County District Attorney Frank Carlton announced that Percy Barr, 40, of Greenwood, a former securities representative of Primerica Financial Services, Inc., has been sentenced to one year in prison for conviction on one count of securities fraud.

"Our office works very hard investigating these securities cases," Clark said. "Thanks to the work of strong prosecutors, we are able to send the message that criminals will be punished."

In addition, Barr was ordered to undergo nine years of post-release supervision and ordered to pay restitution in the sum of $56,649 plus court costs. The sentence was imposed by Leflore County Circuit Court Judge Ashley Hines.

The criminal conversion of investor funds occurred between May 1996 and December 1997. The Secretary of State's Office began its investigation in October of 1997, after having received a referral from the National Association of Securities Dealers (NASD) in New Orleans.

During the period in question, Barr solicited and collected funds from a number of individuals, representing that he would place their funds into mutual funds offered through Primerica.

Further investigation revealed that Barr took these clients' funds and converted them to his own use, without the knowledge or consent of the clients/investors.

Barr entered a guilty plea in the case. He was indicted in July of 1998 in the Greenwood 4th Judicial District. At the time of his indictment, Barr was already under arrest for charges unrelated to this investigation.

St. Stanislaus focuses competition on academics

STORY AND PHOTOS
BY B.R. HAWKINS

St. Stanislaus hosted its 8th annual Academic Competition for Excellence (A.C.E.) this past weekend.

The competition, which showcases talents of the top young minds on the Gulf Coast, attracted over 500 fifth, sixth, and seventh graders from Mississippi schools from Pearl-ington to Pascagoula and from the Coast to Hattiesburg. Fifty-one schools along the Gulf Coast and South Mississippi—including six in Hancock County—sent representatives to compete academically and tour the Bay St. Louis campus.

ACE coordinator, Mike Gemili said, "Our program offers the schools a chance to recognize these youngsters for accomplishments that might have gone unrecognized. The program this year was fantastic and the youngsters have thoroughly enjoyed themselves."

The fifth, sixth and seventh graders sat for competitive tests in English, science, math, and social science. Trophies were awarded for first, second, and third place in each subject per grade level.

There were a number of events and entertainment for the student representatives including a demonstration of engineering and research equipment by the Naval Oceanographic Office, a magician presented slight of hand, and hot air balloonists greeted representatives as they arrived.

2B-THE SEA COAST ECHO—THURSDAY, DECEMBER 10, 1998

The Bob Harmon Football Forecast

NFL Forecast
Sunday and Monday,
Dec. 13-14

Arizona, 18—Philadelphia, 13
(Sunday) In a battle of punchless offenses in Week Three, Arizona scored two late TD's to beat the Eagles 17-3. The Cardinals haven't swept Philadelphia since they played in St. Louis 14 seasons ago.

Atlanta, 26—New Orleans, 15
The Falcons defense produced three second-half turnovers in their mid-October matchup with the Saints, helping Atlanta to a 31-23 win. The Falcons will take their eighth straight N.O.

*Buffalo, 21—Oakland, 20
There's no tougher call this week, because both of these teams are confident yet desperate for a win. The Bills should prevail by running the ball against the Raiders' soft defensive line.

*Carolina, 16—Washington, 10
All that's at stake in this game is whether the Panthers or the Redskins are the NFC's bigger disappointment. This will be Carolina's first win over Washington, after losses in '95 and '97.

Dallas, 27—Kansas City, 14
Call this the Reversal of Fortune Bowl, with the Cowboys and Chiefs having seasons that are mirror images of '97. Dallas will win its third in a row over K.C. with a dominant ground game.

Denver, 29—N.Y. Giants, 16
We couldn't find anything hidden in either club's stats that gives the Giants any chance of pulling off a stunning upset. The Broncos beat N.Y. 27-13 six years ago, the last time they met.

*Green Bay, 35—Chicago, 12
The Packers have something big going for them in the last three weeks of their unsteady march to the playoffs: They get to play the Bears twice. G. B. has won eight straight in this series.

*Indianapolis, 20—Cincinnati, 13
In the AFC's biggest-disappointment category, the Colts and Bengals would be front-runners if they weren't overshadowed by the Chiefs. Cincy won its third in a row over Indy in '97, 28-13.

*Jacksonville, 30—Tennessee, 18
After grabbing a 19-7 lead over the Jaguars in September, the Oilers fell apart and Jacksonville came back to beat them 27-22. The Jag's streak over Tennessee will lengthen to five games.

*Miami, 24—N.Y. Jets 21
Holding the Dolphins to 153 yards of offense, the Jets ended a four-game losing string against Miami in Week Five with a 20-9 win. The struggling Dolphins offense will come to life at home.

Minnesota, 32—Baltimore, 15
With a competent backfield up against a defense that gives up more ground than you'd expect, the Ravens can stay in the game against the Vikings — say, with three TD's. They've never met.

New England, 23—St. Louis, 19
One of this weekend's close matchups, between an all-passing-all-time offense — the Patriots — and one of the NFC's best pass defenses — St. Louis. The Rams beat N.E. last, 14-0 in '92.

Pittsburgh, 14—Tampa Bay, 7
This looks to be a low-scoring affair, with neither team able to move against solid — in the Buccaneers' case, superior — defense. So why pick the Steelers? Because they're 4-0 against T.B.

*Seattle, 22—San Diego, 17
Despite the Chargers' 391 yards, the Seahawks beat them 27-20 seven weeks ago, their fourth in a row over S.D. With two weak offenses and one great defense — the Chargers' — this is an upset.

*San Francisco, 34—Detroit, 14
(Monday) With enough defense to control the Lions backfield and more than enough offense to score often, the 49ers should have an easy time here. S. F. has won six of its last seven against Detroit.

Bay Youth football league ceremony emphasized education

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II

Education was the emphasis at the Bay St. Louis Youth Football and Cheerleader Awards Ceremony on Tuesday, Dec. 8, at the Hancock County Civic Center.

League president Ree Elliott was the master of ceremonies and opened the presentation of awards with a hearty word of thanks to his staff of 12 commissioners for their hard work.

He praised the city of Bay St. Louis for their unwavering support behind the league this year.

Elliott stated, "This year we didn't waste any time with registration. We started that process when basketball was still going on and continued it through the summer. We held a clinic for both the football players and the cheerleaders and a clinic for the coaches."

"The clinics were designed to educate the players on proper techniques and use of equipment. The coaches clinic was created to ensure that our coaching staff was the best available. Moreover, to ensure that the coaches were instructing the players on the newest and safest techniques for the game."

The ceremony was for the league's teams in the 7-8, 9-10, and 11-12 year old categories. Cheerleaders also participated in the same age groups.

Each player and cheerleader were presented with a trophy commemorating their season. The extra gift from the league varied for the girls and boys.

The cheerleaders opted to receive embroidered pants along with their trophy. They also received tote-bags earlier in the season to carry their belongings to and from the game.

The league presented each player with a $50 savings bond to be used for the child's education, in addition to receiving a trophy. The gift for the cheerleader and the players were equal in value.

Elliott stated, "We wanted to send a message to the kids that their education is a top priority. We stressed this year that football and all extracurricular activities are vital to a child's growth; however, we want to emphasize to them that their education is more important."

"We hope that by giving this gift it will motivate them in their pursuit of a quality education."

While each player received a trophy for participating this year, it was left up to the individual coaches to award any other special trophies to a particular athlete.

The most valuable player award from the 9-10 year old team sponsored by Trophies, Etc. went to Trevor Adam. Adam's team went on to record an 11-2 record for the year and win the All-Star championship in Lumberton by defeating Poplarville 12-6 in triple overtime. The team was coached by Jay Cuevas and Richie Santiago.

The 9-10 year old team sponsored by All Star Auto named Chad Boos as its best all-around player for the year. The team was coached by Dave Boos.

The 7-8 year old team named the Hancock Hawks tabbed Colby Adams as their most valuable player. The team was coached by Shelia Beauguez, Steve Seymour, and Bruce Morreale.

The 7-8 year old team sponsored by 84 Lumber presented their most valuable player award to Garrett Sotak. The team was coached by Mark Tomasich.

The 11-12 team from Bay St. Louis combined with Lakeshore's team at the end of the season and traveled over to Long Beach to tangle with an unbeaten and unscored upon Bearcat. The combined team defeated Long Beach 27-14 to end the season for the Bay St. Louis Youth Football League.

Silver Bullets, 25 — Enforcers, 15

Kids turn out to be real winners

BY B. R. HAWKINS

They looked great. They hit hard. The fans responded, and in the end both teams, the LA Law Silver Bullets and the Mississippi Enforcers, drove away with a truck load of toys for the kids.

The third annual Pig Bowl, begun as the brain child of Sgt. Bryan Kuhn of the Harahan Police Department and Capt. Matt Karl of the Hancock County Sheriff's Office to raise funds for Toys for Tots, pitted law enforcement officers from Louisiana and Mississippi in a full contact tackle football game at St. Stanislaus football stadium in Bay St. Louis Saturday.

"This is the first game we have lost to Louisiana," Karl said. The first game, played in Mississippi in 1996, ended with a Mississippi 9-12 victory. Last year, the Mississippi team again brought home the win. "We had a lot of penalties, but we played well together. If we had a longer time to prepare for the game, we wouldn't have had as many mistakes or injuries. But we'll get ourselves back together next year and maybe bring the trophy back home. The kids are really the winners here."

Karl and his fellow officers raised funds to equip the team this year. Donations of funding, as well as equipment, served the Enforcers well.

"We will still need to find donations for a few more helmets and jerseys for next year," Karl said. "But we cannot thank the merchants and friends who helped outfit and support this team this year. St. Stanislaus has hosted the game each year we've played in Mississippi. Abita Water donated all the water and Ernie did a great

Bay student attends youth leadership forum

Mandy Richardson, a junior at Bay High School, recently attended the National Youth Leadership Forum on Law and the Constitution, Nov. 2-8 in Washington, D.C.

She participated with other seniors from across the nation in an exploration of the legal profession.

Activities included discussions with legal scholars, seminars on current legal issues and visits to some of the nation's top law schools and law firms.

During the week, participants toured the White House, Capitol Hill, Arlington National Cemetery, the monuments, Smithsonian museums, and the Supreme Court. The group also participated in a week-long simulation, where they conducted a mock Supreme Court hearing based on an actual case.

Richardson received donations toward expenses from the Harrison County Young Lawyers Association and the Harrison/Hancock County branch of the Association of Legal Secretaries.

Silver City Review

Silver City Review at Treasure Bay features native Coast entertainers

A number of Coast natives will share the limelight when Scalawag's Showbar presents Silver City Review in a two-week engagement.

The 11-piece showband performs everything from oldies to today's hits, and features superstar impersonations ranging from Elvis and Ray Charles to Aretha and Reba. The band performs at Treasure Bay Casino Dec. 15-20 and 22-27. All shows are 8 p.m. to midnight and admission is free for ages 21 and older.

Coast natives include Kari Bory and Chris Wilson, both of d'Iberville; Johnny Jefferson of Gulfport; Danny Johnson, M.J. Farve and Billy Shumski, all of Bay St. Louis; and Frank Newby of Pascagoula.

Transplants to the Coast are Dallas, Tex., natives Dave Maurushat and David Chapman. Maurushat now resides in Bay St. Louis, and Chapman resides in Ocean Springs.

Elvis impersonator Tim Hilliard from Nashville now claims Gulfport as home, and New Orleans native Mark Ridley resides in Woolmarket.

Members of Silver City Review have been performing together for more than two years, and are a familiar attraction at local events such as Cruisin' the Coast and St. Paul's Seafood Festival.

The band plays statewide at exhibitions, conventions and other special events.

Show producer and singer Danny Johnson said the band name was chosen to describe "a touch of class, a distinctive name for a super-group." The musicians are among "the very best musicians on the Coast," he added.

Musical charisma and comedy open the new year at Grand Frankie Valli and The Four Seasons will share center stage with comedian Stewie Stone at the Biloxi Grand Theatre Friday, Jan. 1, 1999 at 7:30 p.m.

On May 26, 1956, using their original moniker, "The Four Lovers," four young men made their chart debut with "You're The Apple Of My Eye." Thirty-eight years later a remix of Frankie Valli and The Four Seasons (1976 #1 single) "December, 1963 (Oh, What a Night)" entered Billboard's charts at #79 and worked its way up the chart.

Shortly after their debut single, The Four Seasons took on a new name and went on to become among an elite handful of acts that have accomplished chart singles in every decade since the 1950s.

Frankie Valli and The Four Seasons were one of the few American singing sensations whose successful careers were not derailed when the British invasion bombarded the U.S. music scene in the early 60s. In fact, 1964 ranks as one of their biggest years and included three top five hits. From 1962-68 The Four Seasons netted two dozen Top Forty singles.

Frankie Valli's three-and-a-half-octave range baritone voice, which glides effortlessly into a falsetto, leads The Four Seasons with a very distinctive and immediately recognizable sound.

Some of the hits they have rendered include "Sherry," "Big Girls Don't Cry," "Walk Like A Man," "Dawn (Go Away)," "Stay," "Silence Is Golden," "Let's Hang On," "Working My Way Back To You, Love," and more.

They say a man is known by the company he keeps, and Stewie Stone is no exception. Among the entertainment stars in Stone's nightclub, concert and cabaret orbit are Paul Anka, The Village People, Roberta Flack, Gladys Knight and The Pips, Frankie Valli, the Four Tops and Air Supply.

Born and raised in Brooklyn, Stone started his theatrical career as a drummer. Today, a widely respected entertainer, Stone is an active presence in the New York Friars Club where he is chairman of the activities and entertainment committee.

With the comedy style of Stone you pick a topic, any topic, and Stone will have a comment in the form of a retort crafted to evoke the most laughter for the situation. Nothing is sacred and no stone is left "unstoned."

Stone has logged in may sidesplitting performances in the big rooms of Las Vegas, Madison Square Garden, Carnegie Hall, The Playboy Clubs and rock clubs all across the country and overseas.

For ticket information, call the Biloxi Grand Theatre Box Office at 1-800-WIN-2-WIN. Ticket prices are $29.95/floor and $24.95/balcony and are also available at all TicketMaster outlets.

Adopt A Pet

Make a house a home

The animals here are waiting for a home and are available for immediate adoption. These precious little pets are at the Waveland Animal Shelter located on Gulfside Drive, next to the fire station in Waveland. If you are interested in adopting a pet, or wish to make a much needed donation to the shelter, please call Nancy at 467-0230 Monday through Friday. All pets adopted are spayed or neutered. Remember, adoption means responsibilities...not just love!

Please remember to thank the merchants on this page for sponsoring these animals. They make this page possible!
